Decision Could Hurt CISD's Case

A State Board of Education ruling last Saturday to uphold a school land transfer decision made by a South Texas county school board could have major and negative implications for the prospects of a turn-around decision which would favor the Canyon School District in a similar case now pending in Austin.

The state board in its first meeting of the year with new membership ruled Saturday in favor of the Cass County Board of School Trustees and overturned a decision made by State Commissioner of Education M. L. Brockette.

In its action and discussion, the board impressed upon Cass County School Supt. Edward Westbrook their intention to take a hands-off stand on local school land transfer cases.

If that's the case, says Canyon School District attorney Elton Cox, it may portend trouble for the local district in its fight to overturn a Randall County Board of School Trustees' decision which gave 168 acres of CISD land to the Amarillo School District last November.

The case decided Saturday by the state board of education involving the Linden-Kildare school district and the Atlanta School District in South Texas and the Canyon-Amarillo case bear similarities although the circumstance in each differ.

The Canyon school district board has appealed the November Randall County school trustee decision giving the 160 acres to Amarillo and a hearing on the appeal is set for 10 a.m. Jan. 24 in Austin before a deputy commissioner of education. The state board of education is the next in line of appeal following the state commissioner.

Westbrook, who's served as Cass County superintendent for 16 years, told The News this week the circumstances of the school land annexation case in Cass County.

He said several persons residing in the Linden-Kildare school district petitioned last year to have 462 acres of land detached from that district and annexed to the Atlanta school district.

Only three school-age children lived on the property in question and they had already been granted the privilege of attending tuition-free the Atlanta schools.

The county board of school trustees, when presented the petition for detachment, denied the petition, he said.

"The board had felt since there were no problems with the transfer and more children than we were talking about, and taking that much property from a small district to give to the district which is already a lot larger, that we shouldn't take from the smaller to give to the larger district," he said.

Westbrook said the petitioners appealed the decision to the state commissioner, who ruled in their favor overturning the county board's decision.

The county superintendent said the county board was not represented at the public hearing before the commissioner.

Westbrook said he did show up, however, for the Saturday appeal session before the state

Canyon hospital board members had their first meeting in their new Palo Duro Hospital Monday night and met with Architect Bill O'Connell, fourth from right, to accept a certificate of substantial completion on the building. An open house for the public is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday to view the new facility.

No Tax Hike Predicted By Loudder In Budget

The rate of inflation, which has proven a major burden for governmental budget-planners over the past two years, should stabilize this year and City Manager George Loudder sees no reason now for an increase in city taxes to pay for the budget allocations he's planning.

Midway through the throes of putting together a preliminary budget for city commission review before Feb. 1, Loudder is again grappling with predictions of inflation for the future but said only city departments which use a great deal of fuel or fuel-based products should be considerably affected by rising prices.

Loudder hopes to have the bulk of his preliminary proposal for the 1975-76 budget ready before he leaves his job here Jan. 24 to become executive director of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Because he is leaving the city, he said, he plans to present the preliminary budget in terms of programs rather than line items to allow his successor as city manager some flexibility in putting together his own programs.

In putting together the budget which is to go into effect after commission approval on April 1, Loudder said he has made no plans for major capital expenditures or the addition of new programs.

He said the purchase of equipment, supplies and moving costs associated with the completion of Canyon's new city hall building will be included.

Inflation, which caused some problems due to the rapid rise in the cost of fuel during the last two years, is expected by Loudder to stabilize.

"I'm not going to anticipate that figures reflecting 12% to 15% inflation this year will continue," he said. "We'll assume some flattening out. We're finding in a number of areas in which we operate a significant market resistance which I feel will stabilize prices and possibly reduce some."

Loudder doesn't foresee inflation as having the impact it had during 1973 when fuel prices rose dramatically due to the national fuel crisis and Arab oil embargo.

He said the money which will be needed to move into the new city hall, which is now under construction at 3rd Avenue and 16th Street, will not be available for

Name Ward To All-State On Defense

Standout Canyon Eagle Jimmy Ward, who's already reaped many honors for his play last fall, has been named to the first team all-state defensive unit chosen by the staff of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Ward was the lone Eagle on the all-state team for the downstate newspaper. He made the team as a defensive back.

An all-district selection on both offense and defense, Ward saw action for the 1974 Eagles as a running back and as defensive rover.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ward of Canyon, the Canyon High School senior was also chosen as a first team defensive standout on the Amarillo Globe-News Panhandle-Plains Super Team. He had previously been cited as a member of the defensive honorable mention unit for the South Plains Super Team named by the Lubbock Avalance-Journal.

Ward also won all-district honors on both offense and defense in 1973.

"He's the best hitting defensive back I've seen in my 17 years," Coach Ron Mills has said of Ward. "He has mental toughness, determination and he can hit. He doesn't have a lot of speed but he can sure strike people when he gets to them."

Ward was in on an average of 22 tackles per game during the 1974 Eagle season.

HUD Funding Objectives Given Nod By City, Guidelines Awaited

Without a formal vote, Canyon city commissioners gave their approval Monday night to short- and long-term objectives to pursue under a six-year, $760,000 federal grant program, objectives which if accomplished would establish new park and recreation facilities, a day-care center and money to refurbish a senior citizen center.

Commissioners meeting in special session reviewed preliminary plans prepared by the city's staff for funding expenditures under the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development community development grant program.

Short-term objectives under the plan call for creation of a new city staff position for a planner and community development specialist, partial funding for rehabilitation of a senior citizen center and partial funding for a stepped-up code enforcement program.

Long-term objectives include establishment of a child day-care center, initiation of a street paving project for Western Canyon, expansion of park and recreation facilities, addition of water and sewer facilities in Western Canyon and the clearance of dilapidated property throughout the city.

City Manager George Loudder said the preliminary plans reviewed Monday night will be transmitted to the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for review this week, even though formal HUD guidelines for submitting application will not be forthcoming until around Feb. 1.

He said formal approval of the commission was not necessary Monday because the formal application will be presented commissioners again at a later date. Another public hearing to go over the objectives will also be held.

Most important part of the Monday night presentation — and it will also be the most important part of the application submitted to PRPC and HUD — is the first year funding program for the grant.

The city has $31,000 to spend during the first year of the grant, if the application is okayed, and Loudder has recommended that $6000 be allocated for rehabilitation of a senior citizens center, $3831 be allocated to pay half the wages of the current city code enforcement officer, and that $18,400 be allocated to hire a staff member to oversee the grant and to perform other planning functions for the city. A contingency fund of about $2000 will remain for other expenses.

In previous sessions, Loudder has explained that the first-year program must be successful and that future years' funding will be based on the use of the first year's allocation from HUD.

"The new staff position is important for our planning and management capability," Loudder said. "He'll be responsible for several areas — the housing survey and administration of this grant in subsequent years. We'll also be using him in development of new areas, platting and subdivision work. Canyon is one of the few areas experiencing growth and a planner is needed."

Following Loudder's presentation, Mayor Manly Bryan noted the items covered both in the long- and short-range objectives were items recommended for funding by citizens during a public hearing held in the latter part of December.

Commissioner Jim Christopher warned that the commission should not commit itself to long-range programs which might be started but which might not receive full funding and which the city would subsequently have to pay for.

Only one citizen showed up for the Monday night session. George Ritter, a professor at West Texas State University who's been actively involved in summer baseball programs and in park and recreation services for the city, urged the commission to commit themselves to an expanded park program whether the federal money is forthcoming or not.

"I'd like to see the commission take a definite move," he said. "If you can do it with these funds, fine. If not, do it without these

Livestock Show Sales Dip; Hales Win Top Steer Honors

Sales at the Randall County Junior Livestock Show dipped below two previous record years by several thousand dollars, with sales for steers taking a nose-dive.

Sales for the 1975 show totalled $24,896, far under the 1974 record of $40,000, and well under the 1973 total of $29,000.

More than 100 Randall County FFA and 4-H club members sold their animals — lambs, swine and steers — following two days of show activities at the J.O. Parker Memorial Building here.

This year's top steer, a 970-pound animal shown by Rod Hales of Canyon, brought $1.05 per pound for a total of $818. Last year's grand champion was bid at $1.50 per pound. And, in 1973, the grand champion brought $1.325 per pound.

Steers this year brought a total of $6271, well over half what was bid in 1974 when the total was $15,000. In 1973, the total was $11,502.

First National Bank of Canyon bid top dollar on the champion steer.

The reserve champion steer was shown by Larry Hales and brought a bid of 75 cents per pound from Farmers Elevator at Dawn.

The grand champion swine, shown by Steve Ayers, brought $2 per pound from Palo Duro Heating and Air Conditioning of Amarillo. The grand champion in 1974 brought a bid of $3.20 per pound and in 1973 the price was $1.45 per pound.

Swine this year totalled $10,112 compared to $14,000 in 1974 and $12,928 in 1973.

The reserve champion swine, shown by Lonnie Tucek, brought a bid total of $1.10 per pound from Canyon's First National Bank.

This year's top lamb, shown by Steve Sanford, brought $1.80 per pound from Amarillo First National Bank, and the reserve champion lamb, shown by Tammy Tucek, was purchased by the Canyon First National Bank.

In 1974, the top price for a lamb was paid at $2.40 per pound. In 1973, the top bid price was $3.10

Pond Goes To Austin With Law-Making Power On Mind

Legislation to give Texas counties limited ordinance-making and zoning powers was just one item on his mind when County Judge Woody Pond travelled to Austin Wednesday to meet with other county officials and state legislators in their second day of a new session.

Pond, a member of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association executive committee for legislative liaison, was among several Texas county commissioners and judges to meet in Austin to host a reception for legislators and to discuss legislative priorities for the session.

A top priority in Pond's mind is legislation or a constitutional amendment which would allow counties to pass ordinances and zoning regulations to aid orderly growth and expansion.

Randall County commissioners went on record at this time last year just prior to the convening of the Texas Constitutional Convention, in favor of action to give counties limited ordinance making powers. Apparently, they still favor the action.

Pond said he's discussed the possibility with the commissioners and with legislators from the Panhandle and with Bill Clayton, expected to be named speaker of the Texas House.

"When the legislature meets they're going to discuss it and try to come up with something workable for this part of the state and the rest of the state," Pond said.

Pond and Randall County's commissioners are primarily worried about their inability to cope with rapid expansion of subdivisions and unordered housing developments in the rural areas outside the city limits of Amarillo and Canyon.

The Texas Constitution denies county commissioners the power of zoning regulation or of formal law-making, and commissioners here have found they must either circumvent the constitution mechanically or stand by while growth continues unregulated.

Commissioners, for example, produced a comprehensive set of regulations for construction of

WTSU Economists Say

Ford, Democrats Plans Won't Be Easy

There's no guarantee proposals unveiled this week by President Ford and Congressional Democratic leaders will work to halt inflation and turn around recession, and just as surely, there's no way solutions to the problems are going to please everyone, two West Texas State University economists said this week.

"The President had to do something," said Allen Early, economics professor. "The country and Congress were demanding that he do something and he had to do something to show that he's making a sincere effort."

And, besides, said Dr. Barry Duman, head of the economics department, if the problems aren't dealt with, the American people could expect more unemployment and higher prices.

Eyeing primarily Ford's proposals for dealing with an unprecedented phenomenon in American economic history — concurrent recession and inflation — the two economists said traditional economic theory has broken down and Ford and the nation's economic leaders are dealing with a two-headed monster for which there are no pat solutions.

In fact, Duman said, it is hard to say which problem — inflation or recession — demands the most immediate attention.

"If you're one of those people on a fixed income or you're living off of savings, then inflation to you is the most disastrous thing," he said. "On the other hand, if you're out of work and looking for employment, then recession is the most crucial."

Historically, Duman said, inflation has been the most disruptive factor in the nation's economy, but he notes that the Great Depression was also a major economic problem.

President Ford, the economist said, has changed horses and now says recession must be dealt with before inflation is taken care of — "his idea being that if you can increase productivity, then prices will come down also."

The theory upon which Ford bases his latest economic proposals, is that in dealing with recession, inflation will be dealt a lethal blow as a side benefit.

The unknown, and it is a major one, in the Ford proposals is the participants in the American economic market who are not susceptible to market pressures. The oil producing countries of the Middle East are among those who are immune to market pressures and are primarily responsible for the inflationary spiral currently.

Dissecting Ford's program, Duman said the multi-billion dollar tax cut for American taxpayers is designed to give people more money so they'll buy more goods and thus inspire more production, which in turn will mean more jobs.

"However," he said, "the consumer may decide to save."

But this, in turn, should stimulate banks to perhaps lower interest rates and make money more available for business and industry expansion. There is a catch, though, because if consumers are saving their funds, they are obviously not spending them and industry and business may fear expansion if there is no demand for more products.

Where will the money for the tax cut come from?

Early said President Kennedy in 1963 instituted a tax cut for Americans on the theory that the cut would stimulate the economy and more jobs would open up and more people would be paying income taxes. The program worked then, he said.

Early said the President's proposal to impose higher taxes on domestic and foreign oil, a proposal predicted to raise the price of gasoline by about seven cents per gallon, is an attempt to cut back on energy useage in this country while at the same time giving the United States some bargaining power with the Arab oil countries.

"We don't have any bargaining power with the Arabs if we pay the price they ask," he said. "The only way we can force down the prices is to cut down on our use of their oil. And, one of the ways to do that is to raise the cost of it."

Early said this might also serve to boost domestic exploration and production.

But, he was critical of the President's proposal to add a

The Glenn Dowlens must be experiencing a great deal of satisfaction these days in seeing their son, George, sitting as presiding judge over the 181st District Court.

George did his homework as district attorney and made a reputation for himself.

He did his job with compassion and did a lot for people, especially young people, during his tenure. He's going to make one of the best judges in Texas because he has feeling for people.

I couldn't help noticing that when he walked into the courtroom here Monday and the bailiff called, "All rise," as is due the presiding judge. Judge Dowlen approached his bench in some embarrassment by the homage being paid him.

When he left the bench he mingled with the people.

Judge Dowlen knows how to play. He enjoys a good game of pool with cronies during his lunch break but he also knows how to work but above all he listens to people and he seldom makes snap judgments, a virtue learned the hard way.

Everyone who has read this column over the years knows I have been extremely critical of George Dowlen in the past and may be in the future.

But I just like him mainly because he is a man of the people with a keen sense of justice. I think it was a good day for our community when he was appointed to the bench.

I don't think he will ever knowingly abuse the vast powers — most folks don't realize what powers he has — of his office.

Mitch Jones ought to write a book about West Texas State University and Canyon.

Mitch tells some hilarious tales about early days at WT.

He was a coach at Canyon High School in the 1920s and took the Eagle basketball team to the state playoffs for the first time.

The Eagles came in second losing 23-22 to a San Antonio team.

Jim Strain, one of Canyon's all-time great athletes, played on that team.

As the final whistle sounded, Strain shot a long one from midcourt. The ball lodged between the hoop and the backboard and Coach Jones contended that it ought to be dislodged thereby falling through the hoop and giving the Eagles a 24-23 win.

Mitch still smarts when he remembers that the unreasonable official refused this logical and modest request.

Hospital Is Virtually Complete

Canyon's new Palo Duro Hospital is substantially complete.

Members of the board of the South Randall County Hospital District accepted a certificate of substantial completion Monday night presented by architect Bill O'Connell after he made a personal walk-through tour of the structure earlier in the day.

Meeting for the first time in their new hospital facility, the board members also set plans for an open house they will host this Sunday to show off the new hospital.

The open house will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday and members of the board as well as hospital staff members will be on hand to guide tours through the building. Chamber of Commerce directors and members of the women's division of the chamber will also serve as guides through the 51-bed facility.

After accepting the building Monday night, board members were told by O'Connell they "can move in anytime now."

O'Connell, with the Austin firm of O'Connell, Probst and Zelsman, spent a good part of his day here Monday checking out each room in the hospital and he gathered what he termed "a long list" of items which must be corrected or installed.

Board members also approved a certificate of substantial completion on the doctor's clinic, which is co-located on the east wing of the hospital. The clinic area, leased to the city's Neblett clinic physicians, includes patient waiting area, treatment rooms and offices for Drs. Manly Bryan, Charles Nester, J.E. Low and Leta Boswell. An unfinished area for future expansion is also included.

Board members also approved two agreements with the clinic physicians. One agreement provides that the doctors will bill patients for their own charges as well as for x-ray or laboratory services provided by the hospital. Then, the hospital will bill the doctor monthly for the charges. The other provides that billing will be done on the hospital's billing equipment for a $500 per month fee.

Administrator Ray Grimes was instructed to contact an Amarillo landscaping firm to begin planning landscaping for the new facility. He received approval to plant rye on the grounds around the hospital until grass and trees can be planted this spring.

The new hospital, which sits on a tract of land in the Eastern portion of the city between 4th Avenue and Spur 48, contains 30 completed rooms, all of them private. It also includes surgical facilities and special care facilities.

Grimes said he expects to begin the move-in procedure before the first of February.

With the move, the hospital staff will abandon the 30-year-old Neblett Hospital building at 7th and 16th Street. The 30-bed facility was unable to meet stringent Medicare regulations for the past several years and was allowed to operate contingent on the construction of the new hospital.

WT Enrollment Begins Fri.

Registration for an anticipated 6000 students begins Friday and formally concludes Saturday at West Texas State University.

Students began returning to Canyon and the campus this week to prepare for classes which begin Monday.

Enrollment for the spring term, which ends in May, is expected to hit the 6000 mark when the final figures are all in by the 12th class day. Late registration continues next week.

In addition to the course offerings in Canyon, the university is offering courses in Amarillo. Registration for those courses was held Wednesday and late registration is set for Saturday on the WTSU campus.

Freshmen and seniors will enroll during the morning Friday with sophomores and juniors and graduate students scheduling classes on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. Evening-only and late arrivals will register from 10:40 a.m. to 1:20 p.m. Saturday.

Last spring, enrollment hit 6073 by the 12th class day, but that figure was down by about 300 from the same period in 1973.

University officials have worried over the state of the national and regional economy and its possible impact on students returning to the campus for the spring term.

Visiting

Dochia Lee Borders has returned from a two-week visit in Long Beach, California where she was a houseguest of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lantz. Mrs. Borders reports that the group had "a good time seeing the Queen Mary, Disneyland" and various other sights in the area.

Come Alive In '75 Slogan For Women Chamber Division

"Come Alive In '75" is the slogan and theme for the women's division of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and was reviewed by Mrs. Leon (Dianna) Gheer, new president, at a regular board meeting held Monday evening, Jan. 13, in the presidential conference room at West Texas State University.

Mrs. Gheer and members of the board discussed upcoming programs and recommended that all members bring two prospective members to the next full session to be held Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Canyon Community Center. The meeting will be a salad supper to feature a skit on parliamentary procedure practices.

Forehand Fund Deplete --New Money Is Sought

A new fund seeking $5,000 needs establishment this week for Kelly Forehand, Canyon High School senior, who received crippling injuries during the fall football season while playing for his alma mater.

"We are presently in need of $5,000 to purchase a 1971 Chevrolet van with about 27,000 miles on it which has already been equipped with lifts and other equipment that Kelly will need for his own personal transportation in order to complete his schooling," stated Orrell Vise, local counsellor with the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

The van belongs to Sheriff Jack Cartwright at Dimmitt and was formerly used by his quadriplegic son, now deceased. The value of the van's installed lifts and other equipment is estimated to range between $2,000 and $3,000.

Kelly Forehand's "trust fund" which was established immediately following his football injury amounted to a collection of $16,000 and has been used up primarily by hospitalization bills incurred.

Kelly is presently hospitalized in Houston at TIRR, Texas Institute of Rehabilitation and Research, and is expected to return to his hometown sometime within the next few weeks.

"If we can get the van before then, it would save the Forehand family the added expenses of Kelly's plane flight home," related Vise.

"The Forehands are presently planning to sell Kelly's automobile and another auto owned by the family in an effort to raise some of the funds to purchase the van," further relayed Vise.

"Kelly is also going to need a prescription electric wheelchair and arrangements and considerations are underway through the Crippled Children's Program of the Texas State Department of Health to purchase this item," reports Vise. The electric wheelchair is expected to cost an estimated $1,400.

The Texas Rehabilitation Commission, for which Vise is local counsellor, is also in the process of supplying the Forehand home with the type of bed required by Kelly when he returns here.

Senior Citizens Ponder Building

Canyon's Senior Citizens Association, if not sitting in their own building, are at least in an ironic and unusual situation.

It's ironic, for instance, that the association can obtain a goodly amount of federal money from various sources to repair or maintain a building after they have purchased one. But, there's not a dime to be had for the actual purchase of a building.

With just two weeks to go before the deadline imposed by the board of Neblett Hospital for the senior citizens to have $30,000 for the purchase of the old hospital building, the association board is still chipping at federal sources as well as local sources for some financing.

Representing nearly 200 senior citizen members in Canyon, the association's board met recently to continue discussions on how exactly to go about obtaining money to finance the building they want and need for their program.

They talked with Tim Schaunty, area development specialist with Texas A&M, for example, to try to determine if there are any federal programs they have not heard of or delved into. While Schaunty was hopeful he might be able to discover some stone unturned, he was unable to come up with a positive solution to the no-building problem.

Federal funds are available through the federal Housing and Urban Development community development program now being eyed by City of Canyon officials, and there is a strong possibility that $6000 will be allocated to repair and maintain a building.

But, there's no building, yet.

There was little humor in his voice as Association President Dutch Cleavinger repeated to board members recently that "we can't get federal funds until we get the building."

The senior citizens began a local fund-raising drive two weeks ago after negotiations with the board of the hospital. While they need $30,000 almost immediately to purchase the 30-bed hospital and property upon which it sits, the association will need at least double that figure for repairs and for monthly utilities and maintenance.

In fact, board members figure they'll need in the realm of $75,000 to buy and renovate the structure to meet their needs.

The additional $45,000 is apparently no problem once the senior citizens purchase the hospital. Community development money will probably be available and other federal sources might be tapped.

Those interested in donating funds for the purchase of the building may send checks to First National Bank of Canyon.

Installation Rites Today For C. Dames

A salad luncheon and installation of 1975 officers for the Canyon Dames will be held today, Jan. 16, beginning at 12:30 noon at the Episcopal Center, 2516 4th Avenue.

Mrs. Douglas (Sharon) Williams, current chairman, will preside at the meeting. Mrs. Bob (Janet) Hand is to be installed as chairman of the new slate of officers.

Old Mexico Fish Caught By Locals

David Davidchik, manager of Gibson's Discount Center in Canyon, has returned from a 10-day fishing trip in Old Mexico.

Accompanying Davidchik were Bill Chapman, Delmer Watkins, Jack Curtis, Bobby Crippen, Eddie Dunkel, Pop Curtis, Jackie Curtis and Bob Mack, all of Pampa.

Davidchik reports that the group fished at Bill Chapman's private lake near Los Mochis, near the west coast of Mexico, and spent four days on the lake with a resulting catch of 880 bass weighing an average of 4 to 4½ pounds each.

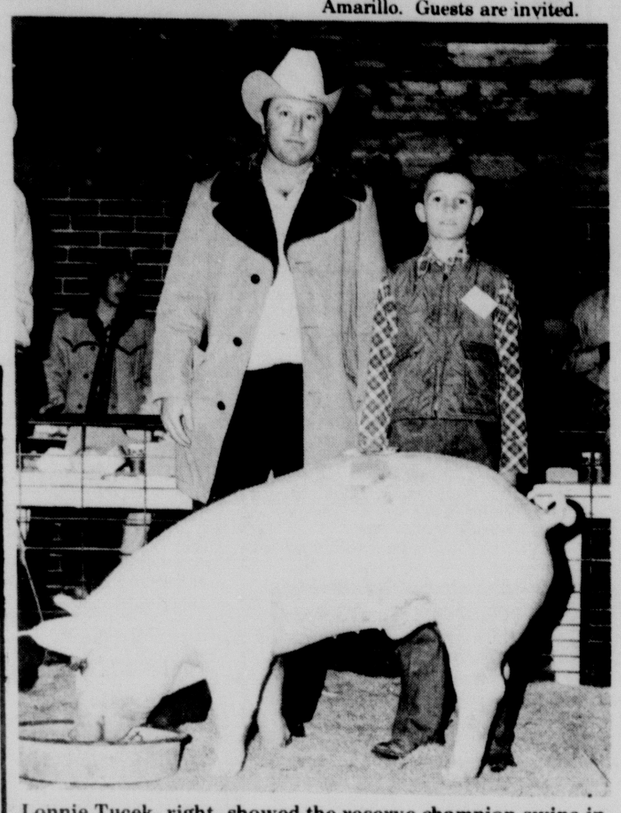
The group of fishermen enjoyed 80 degree weather and brought back 12 ice chests filled with fish filets. Travelling through the Sierra Madre Mountains took the group eight hours to cover 120 miles.

Larry Hales showed the reserve champion steer in the junior livestock show. The top bidder for the animal was Harold Dillehay of Farmers Elevator at Dawn.

Canyon MILs Hold Elections

Canyon Mother-in-Law Club will meet today, Jan. 16, in the home of Mrs. C. W. Dunn, 2414 11th Avenue, at 2:30 p.m. for the first business meeting of 1975.

All members of the club are urged to attend as this will be the election of officers meeting for the group.



Lonnie Tucek, right, showed the reserve champion swine in the 1975 livestock show. First National Bank of Canyon, represented by Lloyd Kurtz, bid top price on the pig.

Cold Snap Enters Community

BY REBA RAEF

HELLO_ HOW DID you like the cold snap of last weekend? That was enough cold to last me the rest of the winter, but guess that's just wishful thinking.

THE PARISHIONERS OF St. Mary's met in the parish hall last Sunday afternoon for the annual business meeting. Mrs. Marion Hicks presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Richard E. Friemel.

Re-elected for a second term were Mrs. Earnest Stocker, secretary, and Snookey Lindemann, Hall chairman. Ben Koch was elected delegate to the Pastoral Council.

Plans for a three day Mission starting April 13 were announced. An old fashioned Latin Mass will be offered, the date to be decided later.

Rose Mary Ramaekers gave a report on the work of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine classes and announced that we will have a Confirmation class this Spring.

THERE WILL BE a short meeting of the Umbarger Community Association tonight in the community building at 7:30. The dates for the volley ball tournament will be discussed.

Following the business, there will be card and domino games. Refreshments will be served. All members are urged to attend.

WITH ALL THE birthday wishes last week, it seems that I forgot our son, Don. He was the first baby born in Amarillo in 1944. And I apologize to our pastor, Monsignor Schafle, whose birthday is also Jan. 1, he is "39 and holding". Anyhow, belated happy birthday wishes to both, also to our grandson, Larry Hartman, whose birthday was yesterday. Next Monday our number 12 will be 18, so happy birthday, Kev.

DON'T FORGET THE C.Y.O. sponsored dance next Saturday, Jan. 18, in the parish hall. Music will be by the "Young Country Sounds." The dance will start at 8:30.

MY MOTHER, SYLVIA Myers, will be leaving Saturday for her home in Los Angeles. We have enjoyed having her with us and we shall miss her, but we know that she will be glad to be home again.

JOHN BECKMAN WAS recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Catholic Family Service in Amarillo. He will serve for a three year term.

JOHN AND CAROLYN Beckman and children and Jack and Marie Griffin, from Hereford, went to Comstock, Tex. deer hunting during the Christmas holidays.

The Beckmans went on into Old Mexico and spent New Years Day and night in de Cuna. En route home, they came back by Lake Buchanan and Lake L.B.J. where they did some fishing, but had poor luck. While they were at Lake L.B.J. they were joined by the Martin Laumann family from Austin.

Carolyn said they had much to talk about as it had been seven years since they had seen each other.

Carolyn said that the children really enjoyed the trip into Old Mexico and are looking forward to going back for a longer visit. Incidentally, John lucked out and got a deer.

education board and "just laid the facts on the table."

"I told them if you sanction the commissioner's decision I know of three other cases you'll have here in a year because regardless of which way these things go, either side will appeal to you," Westbrook said.

He said he warned the state board that if they became increasing involved in making decisions which overturn the county trustee's decisions at the local level they will set a precedent which will cause trouble throughout the state.

Westbrook said that the discussion with the board members during and after the appeal hearing convinced him they "will back up the county board — if they think the decision was fair and just and the county board knew what they were doing.

"I don't think the state board wants to have to decide where property goes. They feel like the county boards and districts in the county know more about the problems than they do."

The superintendent said he told the board and they seemed to concur that if county boards' decisions were undercut in appeals, the door would be opened to increasing numers of such annexation requests.

He said the county board has rejected two other similar petitions and the decisions have stood without appeal.

Canyon school district attorney Cox, noting the parallels between the Cass County annexation situation and the one in Randall County, was not optimistic after hearing Westbrook's summary of the board meeting.

But, he noted there are several major differences between the Cass and Randall County situations. Notably, the petition which is now in controversy in Randall County was promoted by five families living on fewer than 10 acres of land in the northpart of the Canyon School District.

But, those five families petitioned not only to have their property annexed by Amarillo, but also to have more than 150 acres of undeveloped land — with only part of that owned by Developer Glenn O'Dell — annexed.

Cox said he just hopes the commissioner and state board are not inclined to follow their Saturday precedent by ruling for the county board of school trustees.

"It's unfortunate to have our own county board decide against us," he said.

Cox is expected to go to Austin for the Jan. 24 hearing and is expected to argue from the point that the county school board action will set a precedent for future developments. He is also expected to stress that undeveloped land not even owned by a petitioner should not be considered in annexation and detachments.

Depending on the decision rendered following the state commissioner hearing, an appeal is anticipated to the state board and possibly into the state court system.

streets and roads within subdivisions in the county, but haven't the constitutional power to enforce the regulations. Rather, commissioners have used their power to approve plans for subdivisions and to assume maintenance of the roads as leverage to convince subdividers to build streets to specification.

Commissioners tried, but found their powers wanting, also, when presented with problems with bore-hole drilling in the county.

While a West Texas State University hydrologist warned that use of bore-holes (deep cess pools) could lead to eventual underground water pollution, the commissioners had no constitutional powers to regulate the drilling of the sewage holes. Regulation has been left to area drillers themselves.

Pond said the county needs ordinance making and zoning powers to enforce standards in rural subdivisions, which are sprouting like mushrooms throughout the north and eastern sections of the county.

"This would prevent someone, for instance, from going into Mescalero Park and putting a hog farm right in the middle of a residential area," he said. "This would help protect the developer and the land owner."

If such legislation were passed, the county judge said, the new powers would have to be used with some discretion.

"I don't think it's any of our business unless someone infringes on some other's rights," he said.

Pond said giving new power to the county would also allow for orderly industrial development, for insuring adequate water and sewage systems for industrial and housing developments and for adequate streets and roads in the developments.

windfall profits tax for the oil companies, saying it appears contradictory to raise gasoline and fuel prices to increase production while then taxing the profits made from the increase.

The President's proposal to increase to 12 per cent for one year the investments tax credit is designed to stimulate business and industrial investments, and with new investments to create more jobs, Early and Duman said.

The economists said the programs designed to reduce federal spending and to hold down new federal programs may be designed to reduce inflationary pressures, but could have an adverse effect on recession.

If the federal government, with an annual budget well over the $300 billion figure, cuts back on programs which call for construction and expansion, more jobs could be lost.

But, Early said, the plan may include steps to turn over governmental programs to the private sector.

Both economists agreed the final programs instituted from plans submitted by the Democratic leadership or the President will not be pleasant for everyone.

"None of them will work overnight," Early said. "It's gone too long and there's just no painless way."

funds. We have a young baseball program that will be almost double next year. We're running out of room."

In other business Monday night, commissioners turned down a proposal for color coordination throughout the new city hall building which is under construction at 3rd Avenue and 16th Street here. Jay Bannister, a representative of the architectural firm, presented color schemes for offices and public areas.

Commissioners rejected the proposal and asked Bannister to put together a color scheme of more subdued hues.

Following their regular session, commissioners met in executive session to consider applications for the city manager slot here. Current manager Loudder has resigned effective Jan. 24 to become executive director of the PRPC.

new programs or services this year.

The city manager said inflation was well into the double figures for the current year's budget, with a new wage scale and higher fuel prices going into effect during the budget period.

He said he is still unsure what his approach will be toward salary adjustments for city employees, who benefited across-the-board when commissioners approved a new wage and salary schedule six months ago.

"When it's been in effect longer we'll probably update," he said.

Trailer Parksters On Move

By DORIS McKEE

COLD ONE DAY, warm the next, dry one day and snow the next. It is very hard to predict the weather from one day to the next. If you looked out the windows or door about 9:30 or 10:00 p.m. Saturday night, there definitely was a feeling of winter in the air, along with lots of wind and snow.

MR. MORRIS (HUD) Huddleston is still in St. Anthony's Hospital. He is doing fairly well and has had quite a few visitors from the park.

While Hud is in the hospital Granny is staying with him and, therefore, I am trying to hold down the rental office for her. Hopefully, I won't get things in too big of a mess.

WOULD LIKE TO extend a big welcome to a few new families at Siesta.

Jerry and Helen Wells and their two sons, Roger and Ronnie have moved into 201 La Fiesta, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kemp are new at 208 La Fiesta, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Proctor have moved into 113 Siesta. They have four children and moved here from Mississippi.

We hope all of you will be happy here at Siesta.

SEEMS WE ALSO lost a few this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Faziola moved into their new home in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henning moved to Colorado and the Clay W. Johnsons moved to Muleshoe. We want to say farewell to all and to wish each success and happiness.

BY THE WAY, want to wish Jon Hoffman a belated, but very happy birthday. He was sweet sixteen — plus, on Monday, Jan. 13th.

ON SUNDAY, JAN. 5th, Little Miss Laura Padgett celebrated her sixth birthday with a party. What a grand age to be.

UNCLE SKINNEY MADE a trip to Liberal, Kan., this week end. He went to see his son, who is in the hospital there. He also was able to visit with his wife, Mrs. Hugh Rowley, as she is there with their son.

MRS. REX HOLBERT of 225 Loma Linda was telling me, her mother is to have some eye surgery. We wish her a speedy recovery.

THE CUB SCOUTS met last Thursday, Jan. 9, at 4 p.m. in the recreation building. They had either four or five new members. The den mother is Barbara Lett and her assistant is Linda Shaffer.

The Cubs will meet every Thursday at 4 p.m. If you haven't signed up yet, it isn't too late.

THE BOY SCOUTS went on an outing on Saturday. They spent the day at Camp Don Harrington hiking, exploring and cooking lunch out. Everyone had a real good time, but sure was tired. They hope to plan lots of outings and activity.

The Boy Scouts meet every Monday night at 7 p.m. at the recreation building. The Scout Leader out here is Ken Shaffer.

Oh yes, the Scout office has lots and lots of uniforms for all Scouts and they are free.

HAVE YOU EVER had one of those days when you get home from work, fix supper and then just sit down to rest for a little while and very soon discover you should have been up cleaning and straightening things up?

Well, Friday was one of those times for me. Very unexpected, but welcome guests popped in on me. My brother and family, R.H., Helen, Rodney and Timmy Weaver of Denver City and my mother, Mrs. E.M. Weaver, of Lubbock just popped in Friday evening late. We were very happy to have them and enjoyed their visit very much.

R.H. and Helen went to her sister's, Paula and Winfred Dollar in Amarillo and spent Saturday night. They came back here Sunday just after noon and then left for home about 3:30 p.m. It is always nice to have the family visit and hope they'll be back very soon.

SEEMS I AM short on news this week, but hope to have more for you next time. Will sign off for now, so keep on reading.

Thought for this week: "A friendly thought, a kindly smile a pat on the back and a cheery word can make a dark day turn to sunshine."

See ya.

Evening Only Geology Courses Being Offered At University

Understanding the economics of the mineral industry for profit, and the origin, occurrence and development of groundwater are the topics of two evening-only geology courses offered by West Texas State University this spring.

"Economics of the Mineral Industries, Geology 59903, will look at all economic factors that enter in whether a given mineral deposit is economically profitable to work," says course instructor Dr. Franklin Daugherty.

"This course would be profitable for all geologists and the sophisticated investor who is interested in protecting his capital by investing in natural resources stock," the professor notes.

Factors to be considered include cost, marketing, taxation and valuation of mineral properties. Daugherty also hopes to give his students "some idea of future trends," as well as take some hard looks at the current oil energy crisis.

A three-hour graduate level course, Geology 59903 will meet Thursday evenings on the WTSU campus. Permission of the instructor is needed for enrollment.

Daugherty will also discuss "the occurrence of groundwater — where it is, why it is there and how to use it" in Hydrogeology, Geology 411.

A feature in the discussion will be the area's slowly declining water source, the Ogallala formation.

"Geologists and those who are involved or gain their livelihood from the extraction and consumption of water should find this course valuable," Daugherty says.

As water tables decline throughout the region, Daugherty predicts a "return to dryland economy."

"The only viable alternative to this is to import water," Daugherty advises. "If we don't, then the effects on agriculture will be felt throughout the world."

Geology 411 may be taken for three hours credit, and has a prerequisite of 16 semester hours of geology or permission of the instructor. Hydrogeology will meet Tuesday evenings from 7-9:40 p.m. on the WTSU campus.

Registration for these and other West Texas State University courses will be Friday and Saturday in the WTSU Activities Center according to the regular schedule. Late registration will be at the registrar's office in the WTSU Administration Building next week.

For more information about the geology courses, contact Dr. Daugherty on the WTSU campus at telephone 656-3396 or at home at 655-2470. For more information about registration, contact the WTSU dean of admissions and registrar's office at 656-3331.

History Course Is New

A course in the history of American art from the 17th century to the present will be a new offering this semester by the Art Department of West Texas State University.

"Art in America," Art 451, in the class schedule, will be taught Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1 p.m. in Room 228 of the Fine Arts Building. There is no prerequisite for the course.

Dr. Marion Galvin, the course instructor, says the course will include a background in European art and its influence on American art from the colonial period to the 20th century.

Because of the need for shelter, the design and construction of homes was one of the earliest artistic outlets of colonial Americans, according to Dr. Galvin. Those colonial homes which were built substantially enough to endure were mainly of the Cape Cod variety. The home of Priscilla and John Alden, for example, was built around 1650 and has housed eight generations of the family.

The study of American painting and sculpture from their primitive beginnings in the 17th century, through the transplanted Impressionist and Post-Impression movements, will also be included in Art 451, Dr. Galvin stated.

New Form Faces Students Registering For Spring Term

Students returning to West Texas State University Friday and Saturday to register for spring classes will find another form to fill out — but this one concerns how a healthy part of their lump sum fee for attending college is spent.

A committee of the university Student Senate will distribute questionairres to students registering Friday and Saturday to determine their opinions about how the student-service fee is being spent on campus. The student service fee is a flat allocation added to each students' bill when he enrolls at the university and produces more than $300,000 in revenue.

Gene Vaughn Morrison, vice president of the WTSU student body and chairman of the student senate, said the poll is part of a senate committee study of the student service fee and its uses which has been on-going since early in the fall term.

The committee has already talked with most recipients of allocations from the student service fee, which goes toward such things as varsity athletics, campus entertainment and other organizations of students.

Results of the questionnaire will be compiled along with the committee report for presentation to the student senate and the university administration.

Key questions in the poll ask the student's opinion of the current allocations of the student service fee and asks whether the programs funded are important to the individual student.

The poll also asks if the student would want more of his student service fee allocated to athletics, student government, publications, fraternities and sororities, scholarships or residence hall groups.

And, it asks if they'd like to see less appropriated to those areas.

In addition, the questionnaire asks the students what most influenced their decision to attend the university.

Morrison said open hearings will be held during the spring term to take student testimony concerning the use of the student service fee.

Tammy Tucek, right, showed the reserve champion lamb of the 1975 junior livestock show. High bidder for the animal was Lloyd Kurtz of Canyon First National Bank.

Retirement Coffee Honors Lois Liles

A retirement coffee honoring Mrs. Lois Liles was held Saturday morning, Jan. 11, from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon at the home of Mrs. Dan Sanders, 1104 5th Avenue, with about 25 friends present for the occasion.

The retirement coffee was cohostessed by Ms. Dan Sanders, W. L. Smith, Fannie Laas, Claudia Neelley and Ruth Lowes. The honoree was presented with a "money tree" for her dedicated service.

Mrs. Liles is the wife of C. E. Liles, an employee of Santa Fe Railroad, and has been active in the community as a beautician since 1958. She has for many years been the owner and operator of Lois' Beauty Shop at 802 22nd Street Canyon.

The Liles plan to "travel, fish and visit" when his retirement comes up in July. They also plan to spend some time visiting with their son, Don, his wife, Sue, and with their grandchildren, Melanie Sue, 7, and Brian, 11, at Scotts City, Kan. during their retirement years.

Mrs. Lee Roy Moreland of Canyon is the first city woman to receive the Silver Beaver Award for her contributions to Canyon Boy Scouting. The award was presented to Mrs. Moreland last week during ceremonies in Amarillo. She has been active in Cub and Boy Scouting here for many years.

POE Students To Observe Firms

Members of the Pre-Employment Office Education unit of the Vocational Office Education program will be observing officeprocedures followed by personnel of a number of business firms in Canyon for six days in January. Classroom instruction emphasizes the importance of, and training in, telephone techniques and the various other traits and skills needed by efficient office workers. However, it is felt that actual observation in an office would be of more value to the student and more effectively reinforce what was being taught in the classroom. It would also better prepare the student for their on-the-job experiences the following year as members of the Cooperative Education Unit of VOE where they will be working one-half day in an approved training station. Very important, also, is the fact that it would enable prospective employers of VOE students an opportunity to meet the students available for employment by them the next year.

Each POE student will observe in three different business offices for two days beginning Jan. 20.

The business organizations cooperating with Mrs. Lee and the school in this venture are: The Davis Agency; Southwestern Bell Telephone Company; Neblett Memorial Hospital; West Texas State Bank; First National Bank; Hosea Foster Agency; Panhandle Savings and Loan Association; Pioneer Natural Gas Company; The Blackwell Agency; City Hall; Randall County Tax Office; District Attorney's Office; County Judge's Office; and The Canyon Independent School Tax Office.

OMA HAYES SPENT the week end with the Tom Henry family. That isn't unusual, but the fact that I was home, too, was unusual. Grandma always comes and stays when I am away. This time, I also got to enjoy her.

Horsemanship Classes Due

Three horsemanship classes will be featured this spring term in the West Texas State University Animal Science Department.

Hunt Seat Equitation, Animal Science 29905, will be taught Feb. 21-23 by Fran Berry, past chairperson of the National Riding Council and present director of riding at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, New York. Ms. Berry is also a director of the Tacoma Hunt Club, Tacoma, Washington, and a long-time horse show rider. The course offers one hour credit.

Instructorship Training in Western Equitation, Animal Science 29907, will be co-instructed by Elizabeth Shannon and Eleanor Freeman from March 23-30 during the WTSU spring break. Ms. Shannon is the daughter of a prominent calvary officer and is a former chairperson of the Western Section of the National Riding Council. She is director of riding at Perry-Mansfield Campus in Steamboat Springs, Colorado. Ms. Freeman is the current chairperson of the Western Section of the of the National Riding Council. She is a long time quarter horse breeder and 4-H Club leader. The course offers two hours credit.

Reining and Western Riding Events, Animal Science 29906, will be held from April 18-10 for one hour credit. Jerry Wells, a well-known quarter horse breeder and trainer from Purcell, Oklahoma, has made a tentative commitment to teach the course.

Enrollment for these courses will be during the regular WTSU registration Friday and Saturday. One to all three courses may be taken. Each class will be limited to 20 students on a first come — first serve basis. Persons wishing to audit the courses will be allowed to do so only after all regular student enrollees have been taken care of. The lab fee for each course is $4 for a regular student or $15 to audit.

To sign up for any of these courses or for more information come by the Animal Science Department, Room 126, Old Science Building, on the WTSU campus.

Pen Women Elect Four City Women To Official Posts

Four Canyon women were recently named to official capacities with the Panhandle Pen Womenand will be among the new 1975 officers installed at the groups meeting on Tuesday, Jan 21, at Travel Lodge West in Amarillo.

Ann Brown has been named as president for the Panhandle Pen Women with Glenna Wilson of Canyon named as corresponding secretary and bulletins chairman; and Marjorie Brewer, also of Canyon, as historian and scrapbook chairman.

Anita Low of Canyon was named to the board of directors for review applications and to make long-range plans for the group.

Mrs. Ruth Hill, for a quarter of a century the County Treasurer here, was presented a plaque in honor of her service by County Judge Woody Pond during a brief ceremony Monday morning before a courthouse crowd. Mrs. Hill did not seek re-election last November.

County Okays Request

Randall County commissioners resolved formally Monday to ask local state legislators to carry a bill which will allow the South Amarillo courthouse annex to contain offices for county officials other than the tax collector.

The resolution asks Rep. Bob Simpson and Sen. Max Sherman to carry the proposed legislation, which was also perused Monday, through the legislature.

The bill cannot be presented for 30 days.

The bill, written by former Dist. Atty. George Dowlen and current Dist. Atty. Randall Sherrod, calls for a change in existing law which restricts the offices which can be located in an annex.

County commissioners want to put sheriff's deputies offices, and justice of the peace offices in the courthouse annex, which is already under construction in South Amarillo.

As currently planned, the annex will contain only the tax collector's office, but has space for the other offices. The cost for adding the other offices, should the legislation pass House and Senate and gubernatorial approval, has not been included in the $679,000 price tag for the new annex.

In other business Monday, commissioners discussed the possibility of hiring a young college graduate to conduct an office-by-office salary and personnel policy study.

Judge Woody Pond announced the governmental units in Randall County have been authorized $30,000 in federal funding for hiring under- or unemployed persons, but he warned that not all that funding is available for the county as a governmental entity.

Commissioner John Fulgenzi suggested someone be hired to perform the office analysis and salary schedule, but opted for Commissioner Paul Lindsey's thinking that the county now needs more than anyone a person to aid in a massive four-year revaluation of all property.

Commissioners also appointed the Rev. Roy Wheeler, Mrs. J. Frank Heath and Mrs. Holly Reed, all of Amarillo, to the county's salary grievance committee. The committee, established by state law for all counties several years ago, has yet to meet in Randall County.

Commissioners also voted to lease a new Xerox machine for the district clerk's office at a cost of $240 per month.

They voted to set the mileage allowance for county employee travel on county business at 12 cents per mile.

Eaglettes Dominate Area Ball

The Canyon High School Eaglettes continue to dominate area girls basketball with 24 consecutive wins without a loss. The last victory came Tuesday night when the Eaglettes pounded the Gruver girls 59-36.

The Eaglettes led all the way with high-point honors going to Robena Johnson with 34. Becky Williams and Deedy Johnson followed with eight apiece. Louise David had six and Pam Woolsey added three.

Coach Schneider's guards held the Gruver forward to only 22 attempted shots. The Canyon forwards shot 63 per cent from the field and 64 per cent from the charity line.

The Eaglettes are out to beat the record of last year's state championship team. The record to beat is 32-2. Thus far, the team is ahead with no losses.

The only starter that returned from the 1974 team is Robena Johnson. Only a junior, Miss Johnson is averaging 34 points an outing.

Other forward include Louise David, averaging 13 points; Becky Williams, averaging seven points; Deedy Johnson, Brenda Stevens and Pam Woolsey round out the reserve forward forces.

On the defensive end of the court, Coach Schneider's guards blessed with size, but they make up for it in quickness and aggressiveness.

Leading the Eaglette defense are two reserves from last year's championship team, Penny Peckenpaugh and Denice Hamblin. Marci Davis is the other starting guard with Polly Crawford and Lisa Cathey adding to the defensive attack.

The prospect of having an undefeated season isn't talked about around the Eaglette locker room. According to Coach Schneider, each game is to be taken one at a time.

Teachers Hear TSTA Official

Approximately 40 members of the Randall County Unit of the Texas State Teachers Association met Tuesday in the Canyon Junior High School

Guest speaker for the meeting was Bill Potts, TSTA regional representative from Plainview.

The topic of Potts' address dealt with current, state legislation concerning Texas public school teachers.

The legislative committee of TSTA is proposing a Minimum Foundation Bill for the new state legislature that opened Tuesday. Potts outlined the proposed bill to the Randall County teachers.

An increase in base salary will be a major item of the bill. The present base is $6,60. The bill will call for a base of $10,000. The bill also asks for more allocations for educational secretaries, more teacher's aids and a reduction in the number of students per teacher.

Among other items listed by Potts was a 75 per cent increase in transportation funds.

The approximate cost of the Minimum Foundation Bill will be $2.7 billion.

"As our programs are coming up in the legislature, we urge our members to contact Rep. Bob Simpson and Sen. Max Sherman expressing their support and their feelings toward these bills for the improvement of education," Potts said.

Annual Business Meet Set Feb. 13

The annual business meeting of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation has been set for Feb. 13 at the Amarillo Country Club. The meeting is to begin at 11:30 a.m. and will include a luncheon.

School Trustees To Meet

Members of the Randall County Board of School Trustees will meet at 10 a.m. today to discuss the Jan. 24 appeal hearing set before a deputy state commissioner of education.

The appeal was filed by the board of the Canyon School District after trustees decided to allow annexation by Amarillo of 165 acres of property in the Canyon School District.

The trustees' decision came in November, when they considered a petition from five families living in the Glendale subdivision in the north part of the Canyon district.

Phebean Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church met Jan. 9 in the home of Mrs. Faye Marshall with the program "What Is Happiness" being given by the guest, Mrs. Virginia Raillard.

Eleven class members were present for the meeting.

Eagles Score Win Over Tulia

The Canyon Eagles of Coach B.B. Kendrick scored a solid, 72-53 victory over the Tulia Hornets Tuesday night in Tulia. Lynn Wright was the high-point man with 28. Two other Eagles scored in the double figures. John Johnson had 13 and Robby Ratliff sank 10 for the winning cause. High man for Tulia was Raymond Wilson with 15.

According to Kendrick, the team got off to a slow start but soon caught fire and settled down to playing good, consistent basketball, both on defense and offense.

A major key to the Eagle victory was John Johnson's efforts on the backboards. Johnson grabbed 11 rebounds off the offensive boards and cleared eight defensive rebounds.

The Eagles scored at a 45 per cent clip from the field and 73 per cent at the foul line.

The victory upped the season standing to 10-13.

Slaton will be the next Eagle foe Friday night. After that, the district race begins.

In a pre-season poll, the Eagles were tabbed as third place finishers behind Levelland and Dumas in class 1-AAA basketball competition.

According to Kendrick, this year's Eagles are "young and inexperienced but capable."

Hopefully, the members of the Eagle squad including starters Lynn Wright, 6-2; Ken Cooper, 6-1½; John Johnson, 6-3; James Walling, 5-10; and Robby Ratliff 6-½ have become seasoned veterans because of a stiff, pre-conference schedule that included, for the most part, large 4A schools.

The Eagle attack concentrates on a control type offense that works for the good shot. Defensively, the Eagles have tried a zone defense but Kendrick has picked a sagging, aggressive man-to-man as the number one defense. "We are too short for an effective zone defense, it's too easy for people to shoot over us," Kendrick said.

The Eagles may be young and lack experience, but as of yet, don't count them out of the district race.

Schneider To Receive HOF Honor

Bob Schneider, coach of the Canyon High School Eaglettes, will be honored at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Amarillo College Gym by the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame as the basketball coach of the year.

Since taking the reins of the girls basketball program in 1966, Schneider has taken his teams to the state tournament six times and has won all the marbles three times — 1969, 1972 and 1974.

Last year's state championship team compiled a record-breaking 32-2 slate. Schneider's nine year record at Canyon stands at 236-56. The current Eaglette team is undefeated with 24 wins.

The 1974 team won over Conroe in the state finals by a margin of 24 points. This broke a previous Eaglette record set in the 1972 finals by one point. In that game, Schneider's forces beat Rockdale 59-36, for a lopsided 23 point victory.

Schneider's basketball program is a continuous building process. This is witnessed by the fact that only one starter returned for the 1975 season from the championship team of 1974. Add this to the fact that this year's team, with five relatively new faces, stands unbeaten. This proves the capabilities of Schneider's basketball program.

Buffaloes To Meet Shockers

The WTSU Buffaloes take to the road tonight against Missouri Valley foe Wichita State.

The Buffs go into tonight's game with a season record of 4-6 and stand 0-2 in Valley play. The Shockers of Wichita State own a 5-6 season standing with a record of 1-1 in conference action.

Probable Buff starters for tonight's contest are Howard Taylor, 6-2; Joe Cosey, 6-4; Dallas Smith, 6-10; Eugene Smith, 6-5; and Bruce Taylor 6-6. Reggie Ramey, after a one-game leave of absence, is back on the team and is expected to see action.

The Buffs will have their hands full when the shockers have the ball. Bob Elmore, Wichita's 6-10, soph. center, has hit in the double figures in the last ten games. He has rebounded in the double figures in five of the last six games and in seven games Elmore has connected over 50 per cent of his field goal attempts. High percentage shooting doesn't stop with Elmore. Neil Strom, 6-7, has shot 50 per cent or better in eight games. Guard Robert Gray, 6-6, also a high percentage shooter, has hit the 50 per cent mark or better in all but two Shocker outings.

The Buffs of Coach Ron Ekker, for the previous two seasons in the MVC, have won only one conference game on the road. Ekker denies any "on-the-road-jinx." "When you're playing well, I think you win both places, but when you're not playing well, it doesn't make any difference whether you're on the road or not," Ekker said.

Coach Harry Miller of the Shockers isn't expecting the on-the-road-jinx to help the Wichita State cause. "Their (WT) major strengths are overall quickness, rebounding and defense. Our problem is that we have trouble matching up those strengths. They play eight people and they are all quick. Howard Taylor is a very physical, quick and good shooting guard, what more can you say about a player," Miller said.

After the Wichita State game, the Buffaloes travel to Tulsa for another conference clash with the Golden Hurricane. Game time will be 7:30 p.m. Saturday.
